in a brilliant and ambitious thriller that combines elements of jean auel s the clan of the cave bear and ken follett s the pillars of the earth into a riveting multifaceted tale of love art courage and war martin walker brings to life the creation of an extraordinary work of prehistoric cave art and the struggle to possess it in our own time martin walker s richly interwoven novel opens with the arrival of a mysterious package for a young american woman working in a london auction house brought by a british officer it contains a 17 000 year old fragment of a cave painting left to him by his father a former world war ii hero the fragment significant and stunning in itself is also the key to the existence of an un known cave that may be more important in the history of art and human creation than the world famous one at lascaux it triggers a storm of publicity and commands the attention of the french authorities all the way up to the president of the republic who seems to know more about the painting s origins than anyone else as the young american woman the british officer and a French government art historian explore the ancient province of péridord to determine the painting's origins. Their search serves as backdrop for three compelling stories: there is the tale of the British officer's father who lands in Nazi-occupied France in 1944 to organize the resistance culminating in a series of battles to prevent the SS Das Reich Panzer division from reaching the Normandy beaches in time to repel the D-Day invasion, which leads to an account of the subsequent discovery and cover-up of the lost cave and its paintings; and there is also the moving story of the young artist who painted them, the woman he loved, and the ancient culture that produced the first recognizable human art but required the sacrifice of its own creators. Filled with vivid historically accurate details and imaginative recreations of prehistoric life, the caves of péridord blend a complex plot and richly diverse characters into a seamless narrative of romance, tragedy, and heroism from past to present.

A bumper collection of delightful stories featuring Bruno, chief of police and France's favorite cop, all set in the beautiful Dordogne Valley and the ravishing Perigord region of the South West here is a landscape of meandering rivers with medieval castles overlooking their banks of lush hillsides and spreading vineyards of delicious local wines and world-renowned cuisine. With titles like The Chocolate War, The Birthday Lunch, Oystercatcher, A Market Tale, and Fifty Million Bubbles, you may be sure that champagne and gastronomy will feature as well as cozy crime in Dangerous Vacation. Bruno strides through these tales staying calm, settling local disputes, and keeping safe his beloved town of St. Denis. Only on one occasion does he panic in Bruno's challenge: his friend Ivan, proprietor and chef of the town's popular eatery suddenly collapses on the eve of a large anniversary dinner, and he asks Bruno to take over the restaurant. After a few protests followed by some deep breaths, the inimitable Bruno meets his challenge and saves the day.

A sumptuous French cookbook that immerses readers in the incomparable cuisine of the Péridord region by the bestselling author of the beloved Dordogne mysteries series. Co-authored with his wife, food writer and novelist Julia Watson, Bruno Courrèges, the protagonist of Martin Walker's internationally acclaimed mystery series, is not only the local police chief of the idyllic village of St. Denis, but Bruno also happens to be an impressive amateur chef. And in this delightful new cookbook, the culinary and cultural inspiration behind Bruno's fiction world comes to life featuring local recipes, charming anecdotes, and a history of its French setting. Bruno's cookbook invites readers into the bucolic life of Walker and his wife Julia and showcases their passion for the region's rich cuisine brimming with truffles, pâté, top quality fruit, vegetables, famed regional cheeses, and wines. The Péridord is a gourmet's paradise. Bruno's cookbook includes over 90 recipes steeped in local flavors and prepared in Walker's large country kitchen from duck breast fillets with honey and mustard, red onion tarte tatin, and a classic beef pot roast to chard gratin. Bruno's comfort meal hazelnut... meringue cake and homemade blackcurrant liqueur centred on the splendid institution of the village market the recipes are organised around the people who provide the food the fisherman the hunter the cheesemaker castles in the air coming home to the perigord the senses are heightened in the perigord what the french call la france profonde deep france the taste of food the sweetness of the country air after one of the spectacular late summer thunderstorms suddenly etching the sky with alarmingly jagged bolts of lightening the drowsy rich summer days followed by cool autumn nights and then the chill brilliance of a mid winter frost perhaps because men and women have for so long worked the fields and every inch of land that can be tilled the entire countryside has the effect of having been landscaped by some master hand history is always present here in the lichen covered golden stone of every ancient house in the narrow streets of ancient tiny villages in the hauteur of a forbidding and crenellated chateau that towers impositingly next to a rushing river indeed history seems to infuse the very air of the perigord heir to all the ages of eternal france there is mystery here and some say that it was born with the magic that scholars claim the ancient cave paintings may have been trying to conjure whatever the cause the perigord is indeed the most magical and the most beautiful region in all of france and as you drive along a narrow country road the rich dark forest bordering either side you suddenly see in the distance ghost like towers rising above the trees floating it almost seems on the horizon the misty towers of a castle in the air this is the story of how we came home to the perigord
