The Structural Trauma of Western Culture
this book describes the diverse manifestations of trauma and the ways in which trauma has shaped and dismantled our culture. Yochai Ataria describes how we are addicted to trauma and have become both its avid producers and consumers. Consequently, the culture in which we live has become posttraumatic in the deepest sense. This is apparent in the products that have shaped and continue to shape Western culture ranging from the biblical sacrifice of Isaac to Francis Ford Coppola's Apocalypse Now. Ataria exposes the primary attributes of this so-called posttraumatic culture: sacrifice through action, an uncontrolled lust for blood, an inability to speak and describe things in words, a sense of foulness and alienation, emotional death, imperviousness, separation, and an overwhelming sense of exile.

Dolls, Photography and the Late Lacan

2020-12-30

In this fascinating new book Rosalinda Quintieri addresses some of the key questions of visual theory concerning our unending fascination with simulacra by evaluating the recent return of the life size doll in European and American visual culture through a focus on the contemporary photographic and cinematic forms of this figure and a critical mobilisation of its anthropological complexity. This book offers a new critical understanding of this classical aesthetic motif as a way to explore the relevance that doubling fantasy and simulation hold in our contemporary culture. Quintieri explores the figure of the inanimate human double as an inhuman partner reflecting on contemporary visuality as the field of a hypermodern post oedipal aesthetic through a series of case studies that blur traditional boundaries between practices photography, performance, sculpture, painting, documentary and between genres comedy, drama, fairy tale. Quintieri puts in contrast the new function of the double and its plays of simulations on the background of the capitalist injunction to enjoy engaging with new theories on post oedipal forms of subjectivity developed within the Lacanian orientation of psychoanalysis. Quintieri offers exciting analyses of still and moving photographic work giving body to an original aesthetic model that promises to revitalise our understanding of contemporary photography.

The Dialectics of Exile

the history of exile literature is as old as the history of writing itself despite this vast and varied literary tradition criticism of exile writing has tended to analyze these works according to a binary logic where exile either produces creative freedom or it traps the writer in restrictive nostalgia the dialectics of exile nation time language and space in hispanic literatures offers a theory of exile writing that accounts for the persistence of these dual impulses and for the ways that they often co exist within the same literary works focusing on writers working in the latter part of the twentieth century who were exiled during a historical moment of increasing globalization transnational economics and the theoretical shifts of postmodernism sophia a mcclennen proposes that exile literature is best understood as a series of dialectic tensions about cultural identity through comparative analysis of juan goytisolo spain ariel dorfman chile and cristina peri rossi uruguay this book explores how these writers represent exile identity each chapter addresses dilemmas central to debates over cultural identity such as nationalism versus globalization time as historical or cyclical language as representationally accurate or disconnected from reality and social space as utopic or dystopic mcclennen demonstrates how the complex writing of these three authors functions as an alternative discourse of cultural identity that not only challenges official versions imposed by
The Remaking of the Chinese Character and Identity in the 21st Century

2001-09-30

Wenshan Jia demonstrates that a true liberation of Chinese civic discourse can start with a focus on indigenous cultural practices such as face practices. The understanding that every human face offers a distinct cultural grammar for acting, speaking, and feeling Chinese character and identity, the author argues, are primarily functions of communication and as such these practices are of enormous consequence to the necessary reconstruction of Chinese identity in the changing socioeconomic context of the 21st century. In this way, Jia finds a middle ground between the advocacy of complete Westernization and radical Chinese nationalism as a pragmatic alternative. Communication is key; never before has facework research been approached so systematically from the standpoint of its relationship to character and identity. Jia’s work substantially advances the literature on Chinese communication and presents a unique perspective on its relationship to social transformation. This new paradigm of facework, including analytical methods such as circular questioning in addition to major case studies, challenges traditional views while pointing the way toward a new and valuable social constructionist view.
