the common sense guide to dementia for clinicians and caregivers provides an easy to read, practical and thoughtful approach to dementia care written by two specialists who have cared for thousands of patients with dementia and their families. This ground breaking title unites the perspectives of neurology and psychiatry to meet a variety of caregiver needs. It spotlights many real world concerns not typically covered in standard textbooks while simultaneously presenting a more detailed medical perspective than typical caregiver manuals. This handy title offers expert guidance for the clinical management of dementia and compassionate support of patients and families. Designed to enhance the physician/caregiver interaction and liberally illustrated with case examples, the common sense guide espouses general principles of dementia care that apply across the stages and spectrum of this illness including non Alzheimer's types of dementia in addition to Alzheimer's disease. Clinicians, family members, and other caregivers will find this volume useful from the moment that symptoms of dementia emerge. The authors place an emphasis on caring for the caregiver as well as the patient. Essential topics include how to find the right clinician, make the most of a doctor's visit and avert a crisis or manage one that can't be avoided. Sometimes difficult considerations such as driving, financial management, legal matters, long term placement and end of life care are faced head on. Tried true and time saving tips are explained in terms of what works and what doesn't. With regard to clinical evaluation, medications, behavioral measures, and alternate therapies, this book will undoubtedly turn to this unique overview as a vital resource and mainstay of clinical dementia care as well as a valuable recommendation for family caregivers.

Driver License Administration Requirements and Fees, 1996 1996

each motor vehicle jurisdiction in the United States has an established process by which it assesses the required knowledge of driver license applicants to determine whether they are able to operate their vehicles safely and thus qualify for a driver's license. Corollary to that assessment process is the jurisdiction's responsibility to provide drivers with the information for which they are to be held responsible during the licensing exam and subsequently while operating their vehicle on our nation's roadways. The primary means of providing this information to drivers is the jurisdiction's basic driver license manual. This study was directed at identifying best practices with regard to the basic driver license manuals produced by motor vehicle jurisdictions to identify best practices. Three types of information sources were consulted: 1) driver license manuals produced by motor vehicle jurisdictions throughout the country, 2) driver safety information produced by relevant government agencies and private organizations, and 3) research news education and popular literature. Of 212 knowledge items recommended by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA) for inclusion in driver manuals, 119 were addressed by a majority (51 or more) of the manuals reviewed and are considered best practices in subject matter content. Additional topics that should be considered best practices in subject matter content are intersection safety, particularly with regard to red light running; sharing the road with trucks, particularly emphasis on their no zones; road rage and aggressive driving; driver distraction; seatbelt usage, particularly with regard to the jurisdiction's primary or secondary seatbelt laws; and following distance with emphasis on the need for a three or four second gap. It was found that most jurisdictional manuals are smaller than the 8 1/2 in x 11 in size of the Arizona manual, with 48 opting for the compact 5 1/2 in x 8 1/2 in. More than half the jurisdictions produce a version of the manual in Spanish, and more than a third produce a specialized driver manual directed at teen learners and their parents and encouraging parents' active involvement in their teen's learning process.
